

Your Weekend Quadrant Planner

---

On Thursday Evening (or whatever tickles your fancy), gather the troops, or your significant other, or just yourself, and start filling out the boxes. Each one represents a section of the weekend that you'll want to fill in and understand how you're going to use your extra non-work and non-sleep time! Ready?

A large, empty square box with a black border, intended for planning a section of the weekend.A large, empty square box with a black border, intended for planning a section of the weekend.A large, empty square box with a black border, intended for planning a section of the weekend.A large, empty square box with a black border, intended for planning a section of the weekend.